The Lolworth Show has come round again
Every two years we pray for sun and rain
Thus our fruit and veg will prosper and grow
Hopefully be crowned 'best in show', But NO
Those dastardly raised beds will surely cause pain.

Silvester and Son what a team
When in trouble call at No 4 The Green
Never defeated by our watery mishaps
Boilers, basins, baths or taps Good-bye to avocado, such a has been

There once was a dog called Barney
Who was owned by a girl called Charlie
He loved to run
He found it fun
Until he got lost in the barley!

No 15

There once was a Bursar of Girton
Who said it was now reasonably certain
That with the financial crisis
And the fall in share prices
The endowment had Gone for a Burton!

No 17

There once was a young man called Ged
A limerick class please, he said he thought long and hard to become Lolworth's bard
but his rhymes have muddled his head

Twas the eve of the great Lolworth show
The Houltons had 5 cakes on the go
One each thought the dogs
And they ate them like hogs
Still, it's the taking part, don't you know?

Twas the eve of the great Lolworth show
The Joneses had 4 cakes on the go
They used eggs from their duck
But they all tasted like muck
Still, it's the taking part, don't you know?

Twas the eve of the great Lolworth show
The Coes had 3 cakes on the go
But the first two sank
And the third was rank
Still, it's the taking part, don't you know?

Twas the eve of the great Lolworth show
The Smiths had 2 cakes on the go Alan tested just one soon the second was gone
Still, it's the taking part, don't you know?

Twas the eve of the great Lolworth show
The Corbetts gave the cake comp a go
They had baked only one
But the competition was none
So they won, for taking part, don't you know?

There was a young dog called Billy
Who lived in a village that was quite hilly
While out for a walk
They stopped for a talk
And Billy became quite silly

No 20

In Lolworth there was a plumber called Paul Whose ballcock was exceedingly small
When asked why
He went quite shy
And disappeared for a beer in the hall

No 21

There was a young girl called Rhianne
Who decided to live in a van
Much to her father's disgust
She lost her mothers trust
All ended well when she married a rich young man.

No 22

There was a young plumber called Paul
Who was handsome but not very tall
Shooting crows with no luck
He shot next door's duck
Is it dead? No it's lame, that is all!

No. 23

There was a fine lawyer called Short
The Cottage in Church Lane he bought
Local builders are praying
He'll never stop paying
To make it his own Hampton Court!

No 35

There once was a plumber called Paul
A good chap, though really quite small
But when pipes start to leak
He's the best chap to seek
'cause he'll fix them in no time at all

No 36

There was a young man who didn't have much luck

One day he accidentally shot his neighbour's duck

He was so worried and upset

He called in the local vet

"All's well, don't worry, worse case scenario, we could always have a curry"!

There was a village, up the hill by the Green Lolworth it is called – just off the dreaded A14

We have a newly painted phone-box, but no buses, shops or a pub

So if you fancy a drink on a Friday Night
See Christine and join the “Social Club”
